Hi Sandra,

How are you? Thanks for your email – I was happy to hear that you're having a good holiday. I'm having a great time here in Australia with my uncle and his family. The weather here is really sunny and so it's more of an <sup>1</sup> outdoor..... life than we have in London. Everyone wears t-shirts and shorts and is <sup>2</sup>..... all year round! Yesterday was really hot, and we spent lots of time in the <sup>3</sup>..... . Then in the evening, my aunt cooked a really good <sup>4</sup>..... and we sat out and ate it in the garden. I think it must be the good weather – everyone says hello and smiles a lot. It's much more <sup>5</sup>..... and <sup>6</sup>..... than in London where everyone is always so busy. I think tomorrow we're going to go to an island by boat. There are lots of beautiful birds on the island – and no one who lives there can have a pet cat! I'll send you some photos soon.

Have fun!

Love, Diana
